SUPPLEMENT

1. Preparations for a Communist National Assembly have been under way since 10 October in Yenan. On 18 October the Shanghai Communist Committee received an order from the Communist Central authorities directing the Shanghai Committee to elect representatives to attend the Communist National Assembly should Communist-Kuomintang peace talks fail.
2. The Communists have decided to withdraw to Hongkong, Tsingtao, and areas outside of Shanghai if necessary. Preparations have been made for the Communists in Shanghai whose identity is already known by the Kuomintang. They are now trying to obtain for use in event of a withdrawal as much money in U. S. dollars as possible.
3. LI Sung-ling (李松齡), labor representative on the Shanghai Communist Committee, was ordered to infiltrate into the Communication Bureau of Shanghai Municipal Government. After winning the confidence of his co-workers, such as technicians WU Chin-shou (吳錦壽) and CHU Shu-cheng (朱樹錚), he will try to make them join the Communist Party.
4. The Min Sheng (民聲) Book Store on Rue Conty has been used as the headquarters of the leftist writers from north Kiangsu. LIN Tan-chiu (林淡秋) is one of the well-known Communist propaganda writers in Shanghai.
5. MAO Tun (茅盾), a famous leftist writer, is going to Nanking to ask for a passport to Russia. YEH I-chun (葉以群) will take his place in Shanghai.
6. In order to improve radio communication in Shanghai the Communists have employed a local radio expert to collect radio parts and build new radio sets. The main communication center is on Gordon Road. The work of this communication center consists mainly of radio repairing, adjusting of radio parts and distributing of radios. The majority of these parts were supplied by the Soviets. The chief of the Soviet Consulate radio station is giving them technical aid. Most of these radio sets will be distributed to the Communist units outside of Shanghai.
